

Women in Science Conference

September 17, 2024 | 5:30 – 7:30 PM | The Place on Beal

The Emerald Coast Science Center is hosting our eighth annual conference to celebrate women who have pursued STEM careers and to inspire our young community members to pursue STEM careers of their own. This fundraiser will feature six speakers, intermission and networking, and a panel discussion for speakers to take questions from the audience. This is an amazing experience for young women who are considering STEM educations and careers. Please consider providing your support to these young women and to the future of our STEM industry. You can support the Women in Science Conference with several contribution levels:
